

ALL WHO ESCAPE THE TRAIN ARE MASSACRED

More Than 400 Persons
Slain by Mexican Rebels.

OF ALL ON BOARD, BUT ONE IS LEFT

Women and Children Accompanying Soldiers Are Put to Sword, and Bodies of Dying Victims Are Cast Into Wreckage of Burning Cars.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] Mexico City, November 27.—A troop train, carrying 300 federal soldiers, was blown up by dynamite this afternoon near La Ventura, on the National Railway, south of Saltillo. The rebels are said to have shot and killed every one of the soldiers who escaped the explosion. About 100 women, known as soldaderas, who were on the train, were also killed, as were several children. The only person to escape was a railroad engineer, who was seen running away from the wreckage of the train and threw the bodies of many of the dying victims into the burning cars.

The train was taking the troops from Venegras to Saltillo to strengthen the garrison. Herds of rebels are reported advancing on the city from every direction.

A band of rebels, under Emilio Martinez, who have been operating around Concepcion del Oro, in Zacatecas, left there yesterday, with the intention of sweeping north to Coahuila. It is believed that this is the band that dynamited the train near La Ventura today and massacred the soldiers and the women and children accompanying them.

BACK IN WHITE HOUSE

Mr. and Mrs. Sayre at Home for Thanksgiving Dinner.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, November 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Sayre slipped back into the White House this evening as quietly as they had taken off shortly after the wedding Tuesday. They came in time to take the place of the family dining table for the first Thanksgiving dinner the President had eaten in the White House. In the party were the President and Mrs. Wilson, the two sisters of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Legare Walker, of South Carolina, and Mrs. Edward and Miss Marie Brown, of Atlanta, the last of the house guests who have come to witness the brilliant ceremony, of which the young couple had been the central figures.

Mr. and Mrs. Sayre arrived shortly before 6 o'clock. There was time before dinner to inspect a score of handsome persons, which had arrived since the wedding day. A number of the gifts that reached the White House before Tuesday had already been packed for shipment to Williamstown, Mass.

The young couple motored to Washington from Baltimore, where they had spent the greater part of the day. They had been in the city since they arrived in the automobile of Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President.

That the couple have been in Baltimore for a portion of the time at least was learned from their intimate friends in that city to-day. It was suggested that they had been in the city since they arrived in the automobile of Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President.

Mr. and Mrs. Sayre will accompany the President to New York tomorrow on his trip to see the battle of the Marston. They will sail for Europe Saturday, several hours before the game begins. They will return to Williamstown late in January.

Though it is the general impression that Mr. and Mrs. Sayre have been in Baltimore since their wedding, no statement could be secured from them, or any one else at the White House as to whether they had spent the time since they arrived in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Sayre will accompany the President to New York tomorrow on his trip to see the battle of the Marston. They will sail for Europe Saturday, several hours before the game begins. They will return to Williamstown late in January.

CARNEGIE IS "MIXED"

His Statements as to Campaign Contributions Are Denied.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, November 27.—The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, which has been accused of contributing to the campaign of Mr. Wilson for the Presidency, today denied the charge. Mr. Carnegie, it was stated, had contributed to the campaign of Mr. Wilson for the Presidency, but only $5,000, which was received from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, which has been accused of contributing to the campaign of Mr. Wilson for the Presidency.

DEATH TOTAL IS 234

Gotham Automobiles 1,000 Per Cent More Deadly Than London's.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, November 27.—There were 234 persons killed by automobiles in New York City last week, according to the report of the Police Department. This is a record for the city, and is a far higher death toll than in London, where only 120 persons were killed by automobiles last week.

SEAMAN WISHES TO DIE

Attempts to Kill Himself While Vessel Is in Harbor.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, November 27.—A seaman, named John J. O'Shaughnessy, who was on board the ship "The S. J. O'Shaughnessy," which is in the harbor of New York City, today attempted to kill himself by jumping overboard. He was rescued by the crew of the ship and taken to the hospital.

SACRIFICE IS IN VAIN

Three Sailors Give Lives in Effort to Rescue Shipwrecked Vessel.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, November 27.—Three sailors, who were on board the ship "The S. J. O'Shaughnessy," which is in the harbor of New York City, today gave their lives in an attempt to rescue a shipwrecked vessel. They were killed by the waves of the sea.

BODY IS FOUND

Mill Pond Gives Up Remains of Missing Man.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, November 27.—The body of a missing man, who was reported to have been killed in a fire in New York City, today was found in Mill Pond. The body was identified as that of the missing man.

GREAT VESSEL LAUNCHED

Tank Steamer Will Have Capacity for 15,000 Tons of Oil.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, November 27.—The launch of a new tank steamer, which will have a capacity for 15,000 tons of oil, today took place in New York City. The ship was launched by the New York Shipbuilding Company.

SCORES ARE DROWNED

Laborers Lose Lives in Floods on Fruit Plantations.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] Mexico City, November 27.—An American, giving the name of Albert Kidder, today reported that scores of laborers employed on the plantations of the United Fruit Company, in Mexico, had been drowned in floods.

ENGLAND WAIVES HER NAVAL RIGHTS TO UNITED STATES

Will Not Take Initiative in Mexican Waters.

YIELDS PRESTIGE TO MAKE AMENDS

All Questions of Action at Scene of Trouble Will Be Put Up to Rear-Admiral Fletcher, Who Is in Command of American Fleet—Crisis at Tampico.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, November 27.—Great Britain has waived her naval rights in Mexican waters to the United States. This important statement was made to-day, after a conference at the White House, between the President and Sir William Tyrrell, private secretary to Sir Edward Grey, British Minister of Foreign Affairs.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

It is understood that this waiver of rights was arranged for by previous communications between Great Britain and the United States, and of course, before the arrival of the British cruiser Suffolk at Tampico.

MORROE DOCTRINE IS FULLY INDORSED BY GREAT BRITAIN

Lord High Chancellor Speaks for His Government.

WORDS CHEERED BY AMERICANS

Haldane Pays Tribute to Ideals of United States, and Says He Understands Its Position of Responsibility on Western Hemisphere—Great Praise for President Wilson.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] London, November 27.—The Thanksgiving dinner of the American Society here to-night was noteworthy because of the pronouncement of the British government's indorsement of the Monroe Doctrine by Viscount Haldane, Lord High Chancellor.

Three hundred and fifty American men and women, with a large number of British, French, and other guests, were present, and they cheered Lord Haldane's words repeatedly.

Lord Haldane, in his speech, paid a high tribute to the ideals of the United States, and said that he understood its position of responsibility on the Western Hemisphere.

Lord Haldane, in his speech, paid a high tribute to the ideals of the United States, and said that he understood its position of responsibility on the Western Hemisphere.

Lord Haldane, in his speech, paid a high tribute to the ideals of the United States, and said that he understood its position of responsibility on the Western Hemisphere.

Lord Haldane, in his speech, paid a high tribute to the ideals of the United States, and said that he understood its position of responsibility on the Western Hemisphere.

Lord Haldane, in his speech, paid a high tribute to the ideals of the United States, and said that he understood its position of responsibility on the Western Hemisphere.

Lord Haldane, in his speech, paid a high tribute to the ideals of the United States, and said that he understood its position of responsibility on the Western Hemisphere.

Lord Haldane, in his speech, paid a high tribute to the ideals of the United States, and said that he understood its position of responsibility on the Western Hemisphere.

Lord Haldane, in his speech, paid a high tribute to the ideals of the United States, and said that he understood its position of responsibility on the Western Hemisphere.

Lord Haldane, in his speech, paid a high tribute to the ideals of the United States, and said that he understood its position of responsibility on the Western Hemisphere.

Lord Haldane, in his speech, paid a high tribute to the ideals of the United States, and said that he understood its position of responsibility on the Western Hemisphere.

Lord Haldane, in his speech, paid a high tribute to the ideals of the United States, and said that he understood its position of responsibility on the Western Hemisphere.

MORE CHILDREN AND MORE MONEY, NEED OF SCHOOLS

Burruss Declares in Favor of Compulsory Education.

SAYS IT'S SOLUTION OF PRESENT ILLS

He Would Foster Negro and Mountain Education, and Have State Assume Burden of Retirement Fund—Makes His Annual Report at Lynchburg Conference.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Lynchburg, Va., November 27.—Two thousand teachers and educators from all portions of the State, not including local registrars, attended the numerous conferences held under the auspices of the Virginia Educational Conference here to-day, there being no less than thirty separate sessions.

The opening event came to-night, in a masterly address by Congressman James H. Aswell, of Louisiana, whose subject was "Mastery in Education."

Dr. Burruss, president of the State Teachers' Association, who presided to-night, made his annual report, saying that the State Teachers' Association at Court Street Methodist Church, where nearly 2,000 people crowded in to hear him, had been denied admission for local reasons.

Dr. Burruss, president of the State Teachers' Association, who presided to-night, made his annual report, saying that the State Teachers' Association at Court Street Methodist Church, where nearly 2,000 people crowded in to hear him, had been denied admission for local reasons.

Dr. Burruss, president of the State Teachers' Association, who presided to-night, made his annual report, saying that the State Teachers' Association at Court Street Methodist Church, where nearly 2,000 people crowded in to hear him, had been denied admission for local reasons.

Dr. Burruss, president of the State Teachers' Association, who presided to-night, made his annual report, saying that the State Teachers' Association at Court Street Methodist Church, where nearly 2,000 people crowded in to hear him, had been denied admission for local reasons.

Dr. Burruss, president of the State Teachers' Association, who presided to-night, made his annual report, saying that the State Teachers' Association at Court Street Methodist Church, where nearly 2,000 people crowded in to hear him, had been denied admission for local reasons.

Dr. Burruss, president of the State Teachers' Association, who presided to-night, made his annual report, saying that the State Teachers' Association at Court Street Methodist Church, where nearly 2,000 people crowded in to hear him, had been denied admission for local reasons.

Dr. Burruss, president of the State Teachers' Association, who presided to-night, made his annual report, saying that the State Teachers' Association at Court Street Methodist Church, where nearly 2,000 people crowded in to hear him, had been denied admission for local reasons.

Dr. Burruss, president of the State Teachers' Association, who presided to-night, made his annual report, saying that the State Teachers' Association at Court Street Methodist Church, where nearly 2,000 people crowded in to hear him, had been denied admission for local reasons.

Dr. Burruss, president of the State Teachers' Association, who presided to-night, made his annual report, saying that the State Teachers' Association at Court Street Methodist Church, where nearly 2,000 people crowded in to hear him, had been denied admission for local reasons.

Dr. Burruss, president of the State Teachers' Association, who presided to-night, made his annual report, saying that the State Teachers' Association at Court Street Methodist Church, where nearly 2,000 people crowded in to hear him, had been denied admission for local reasons.

Dr. Burruss, president of the State Teachers' Association, who presided to-night, made his annual report, saying that the State Teachers' Association at Court Street Methodist Church, where nearly 2,000 people crowded in to hear him, had been denied admission for local reasons.

ZELAYA ARRAIGNED IN COURT

Former Nicaraguan Dictator to Answer Extrajudicial Proceedings.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, November 27.—Sanctos Zelaya, former President and dictator of Nicaragua, was arraigned to-day before United States Commissioner Shields in extradition proceedings to answer a charge of murder committed in Nicaragua. Zelaya, who was accompanied by counsel, refused to make a statement, and was held in custody until Monday. He was held without bail and remanded to the Tombs prison.

This charge against me has been trumped up by the present administration of Nicaragua," said Zelaya to a reporter. "But it is a political offense that is charged, and I cannot be indicted. Even if I were indicted, the masses of the people of Nicaragua would see that I got fair play. The masses of the people of Nicaragua would see that I got fair play."

Zelaya indignantly denied a report that he had made his escape hidden in a trunk from the Waldorf after he had been informed of the request for his extradition. He declared he had walked out of the hotel like any other individual.

In the Tombs, Zelaya gave his age as sixty years, and said he had been a merchant in Barcelona. He reached the prison in time to partake of the Thanksgiving dinner prepared for the prisoners. This consisted of fried chicken, turkey, and other Central American delicacies.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

Zelaya was arrested last night in London by the British police, who are the latest father-in-law of Kid McCoy, and who is said to have been connected with the Honduras lottery and other Central American enterprises.

ORANGE AND BLUE VICTORIOUS, BUT TARHEELS HAPPY

Carolina Crosses Virginia's Goal for First Time in Eight Years.

CROWD OF 12,000 SEES YOUTH'S FEAT

Fuller, Nineteen-Year-Old Fledgling, Races Seventy Yards, but Easily Outdistances Charlottesville Warriors, Making Touchdown—Gooch Is Star for Virginia.

Statistics of Game

Virginia gained by rushes, 256 yards.	Carolina gained by rushes, 221-1-2 yards.
Virginia gained from forward passes, 47 yards.	Carolina gained from forward passes, 47 yards.
Virginia was penalized 82 yards.	Carolina was penalized 20 yards.
Virginia made 14 first downs.	Carolina made 14 first downs.

RAY'S JAWBONE BROKEN.
Left half back Ray, of the University of Virginia, was injured through the game with a broken jawbone. This was discovered immediately after the game by Dr. J. M. Hensley, who made an X-ray examination of the injury. While not serious, the injury is painful. Ray states that he was injured in making a tackle early in the fray.

BY GUS MALBERT.
For the first time since 1905 the goal line of the University of Virginia has been crossed by a warrior from the University of North Carolina, and though the visitors from the Old North State will go back home to tell as best they can the story of a glorious defeat behind a score of 26 to 7, on this Thanksgiving Day, there is no sorrow, no grief marks will furrow their cheeks, for the Rubicon of hope has been crossed, the work of years almost accomplished—Virginia's goal line has been crossed and by a football fledgling, at that.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Walter P. Fuller (black caps, please) He's the young man. It took him a long time to get to the University of North Carolina. He lives way down in Florida, way down in a little village called Bradenton, almost on top of the Everglades, where he took him a long time to arrive. He's nineteen, 155 pounds light, and is two inches shy of the coveted six feet. But he found the Virginia goal line, and it took him a long time to find that, too, almost until darkness arrived. For it was in the third period of play, when almost everybody had given up, that he came in, and he was the only one who was not tired. He was the only one who was not tired.

Continued On Second Page.

Shop Now
There Are Just
23
More Shopping Days
Before Christmas